Come hear about plans to transform the former John Marshall High School into an Opportunity Hub

The John Marshall Opportunity Hub is an effort to expand existing services and bring new opportunities to the far eastside neighborhood serving our residents and small businesses.

Potential opportunities include job training and placement, education (youth and adult), improved access to healthy food choices, social services, childcare, financial counselling, recreation and performing arts, business assistance, entrepreneurial training, etc.

Hear from and ask questions of the initial “Opportunity Providers” including CAFÉ, Ivy Tech, Eskenazi Health, Gleaners Food Bank, Employ Indy, Next Studios, and the Hancock County Economic Development Council

What kind of opportunities would you like to see based in our neighborhood? How do we better serve our youth, our families? What activities would you like to see at John Marshall?

Come listen and participate as we work to reactivate this important community facility.
